

Axis Construction Corporation Creates Ladies Locker Room At Peconic Bay Medical Center's Surgical Pavilion

Flanking the plaque honoring Axis Construction's generous donation are Jay Zuckerman, PBMC's Assistant Administrator, Regulatory Affairs; Ralph Lambert, Axis Construction's Chief Operating Officer; Robert Wihlborg, Axis Construction's President; and Andrew Mitchell, PBMC's President and CEO. (PBMC)

Riverhead - Axis Construction Corporation, one of the leading construction firms in the tri-state area, donated their time, services and construction costs to create a brand-new ladies locker room for Peconic Bay Medical Center's surgical pavilion.

Valued in excess of $100,000, the 750-square-foot area includes oak-paneled lockers, a fully-equipped shower area and a bright, calm and relaxing lounge.

Led by Chief Operating Officer Ralph Lambert and President Robert Wihlborg, Axis Construction was selected by Peconic Bay Medical Center to build two of its most recent additions - the all-new, 10,000-square-foot emergency room, which opened in 2008, and the award-winning, 20,000-square-foot Kanas Center for Advanced Surgery, which opened in 2009.

"We are extremely grateful to Messrs. Lambert and Wihlborg for their generosity," said Andrew Mitchell, Peconic Bay Medical Center's President and CEO. "They bring the same commitment to quality to their organization as we endeavor to bring to ours."..

Located in Hauppauge, Axis Construction provides construction services to many prestigious hospitals, academic medical centers and educational systems, with such clients as North Shore University Hospital, Long Island Jewish Medical Center, Winthrop University Hospital, Stop & Shop Supermarkets, Keyspan, Metro-North Rail Road, Estee Lauder, Northrop Grumman, Long Island Rail Road, C.W. Post University, Peconic Bay Medical Center, New York Presbyterian and and Jacobi Medical Center.

Strategically located in Riverhead, PMBC is a non-profit, 214-bed medical facility. Home to a 60-bed Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, Peconic Bay Homehealth Services, and the Richard Rubenstein, MD Center for Bariatric Surgery, PBMC is also a regional provider of orthopedics through the Hamptons Orthopedic & Rehabilitation Institute. A unique partnership with Stony Brook University Hospital - Long Island's only academic medical center - provides trauma specialists in PBMC's Emergency Center as well as highly-trained physicians in its Center for Advanced Medical Imaging (CAMI).leading construction firms in the tri-state area, donated their time, services and construction costs to create a brand-new ladies locker room for Peconic Bay Medical Center's surgical pavilion.