

Golf Classic Raises More Than $280,000 for Cardiac Expansion

ITH BRIGHT BLUE SKIES, mild temperatures and a light breeze, October 5 was the perfect day to play golf. That's exactly how more than 250 Huntington Hospital supporters spent the day, teeing off at Huntington Crescent Club and Indian Hills Country Club for the hospital's Annual Golf Classic. Proceeds from this year's event, which exceeded $280,000, will go toward construction of a second cardiac catheterization laboratory in the hospital's Mariani Family Cardiology Center.

Honoree Ralph Lambert, Chairman of Axis Construction, thanked the event's sponsors and participants for their generosity. A long-time Huntington resident and avid supporter of numerous charitable organizations, Mr. Lambert noted that he has a special affinity for the hospital, where his five children were born.

The Golf Classic was capped off with an awards presentation and dinner reception where former New York Jet Greg Buttle served as celebrity auctioneer for a live auction featuring luxury merchandise and exciting travel opportunities. Golf Classic Chairman Alan Kisner, MD, Chief, Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at Huntington Hospital, and a hard-working corporate committee have already begun planning next year's event. //

1 Celebrity auctioneer, former New York Jet Greg Buttle and his wife, Rita, enjoyed the reception.

2 (Left to right) Sal Corso, Brian Gaudreault, and Board members J. Ronald Gaudreault and Bob Meyer

3 Kevin Lawlor, President and CEO, and James Romanelli, MD, Chief of Surgery

4 Jim Degnan, Scott Paternoster, William Healy, III, MD, and Richard Prince enjoy the reception.

5 Golf Classic Chairman Alan Kisner, MD, Board Chairman Bernard Rosof, MD, and Board Chairman Bernard Rosof, MD.

